Vigilant Reporters.

A baby boy arrived at the home of Attorney and Mrs. Harry C. James Wednesday night.

A marriage license was granted this week to George M. Geller and Essie M. Kerr of Juniata Township.

Services will be conducted in St. James Episcopal Church, Sunday morning at 11 o'clock by Rev. P. S. Dussy of Bay St. Louis, Miss.

Mr. Henry Ritchey returned to Bedford last evening from a Philadelphia hospital, where he has been for some time.

Mr. J. S. Berkstresser of Aspinwall, a former resident of Wolfburg, is spending some time in Bedford. He is a guest at the Union Hotel.

Claude E. Beegle, son of Francis Beegle of Everett, Rt. 2, graduated at Gettysburg College in June in the Departments of Science and Pedagogy.

Cake sale and festival Saturday afternoon and evening, Centre Square, conducted by girls of St. John's Reformed Sunday School. Nuff sed, you'll be there.

Don't forget, home made cake and good ice cream at the festival, Centre Square, by girls of St. John's Reformed Sunday School, Saturday afternoon and evening next.

The body of Mrs. John J. Hildinger, formerly Miss Hedding, were brought to Bedford last evening. Funeral from M. E. Church this (Friday) morning at 10 o'clock.

Marriage licenses were issued in Cumberland this week to Hollie William Miller of Hyndman and Nanie Alice Shroyer of Fairhope, and Thurman Arlington Cready of Alton, O., and Ida Bohen of Buffalo Mills.

Monday morning, Jacob, Crouse, who has conducted a cigar store and pool room here for some time, made a voluntary assignment for the benefit of his creditors, Charles D. Brode being named as assignee.

Baseball game yesterday, Coal Dale vs. Bedford, Bedford won out by the magnificent score of 11 to 2. Coal Dale will need a little coaching. Didn't make exciting practice for our boys.

The Woman's Suffrage organization of Wolfburg will sell ice cream and cake on the school grounds on Saturday evening, July 11. The proceeds of the sale are to be used for necessary campaign expenses in the county.

Didn't Attorney-General Bell leave out a little bad Republican politics the other day when he testified that the automobile act passed last session of the Legislature was intended for Republican politicians? It is bad to break those rotten eggs just before election.

Two pedestrians by name of Imre Singer and John Gau were here on July 6 on a hike from New York City to San Francisco, having left New York City June 14. They sell post cards for maintenance on their trip and they are to have $10,000 if they do to trip in one year. Singer walked from Budapest to Berlin, Germany in 130 days; he is 22 years of age and has been in this country about seven months.

From a recent issue of the Cumberland Times we note that Lester Zimmers of that city, son of John Zimmers of Bedford Township, has received a letter of commendation from Superintendent Kelly of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, for removing a door which was lying across one of the eastbound tracks early one morning in May. It, no doubt, saved a serious wreck.

Governor Oswald West of Oregon, one of the Chautauqua lecturers, bought a flint-lock gun and other relics at Ye Little Antique Shop during his sojourn in Bedford. The Governor is building a log house on the western coast of Oregon, within view of the Pacific—a house big enough to entertain thirty people for a week or longer. This big log house will be furnished with quaint old-time things and relics of days ago.

Wednesday of this week two young men who are camping in the Narrows were playing with a revolver when the weapon accidentally went off, the ball striking in the back of Joseph Brown, colored, from Hollidaysburg. The patient was brought to the office of Dr. W. F. Enfield who extracted the bullet and the patient is getting along nicely. The young men had put rim fire cartridges in the revolver which was for center fire and pulled the trigger not thinking the cap would explode but it did. More carelessness and more risk.

Federal Judge Appointed
President Wilson recommended to the Senate the appointment of W. H. Thomson for the position of Federal Judge in the Western District of Pennsylvania. The appointment has the endorsement of the bar and the business men of the Pittsburgh District.

EDITOR DEAD

William Thompson of the Herald Publishing Company, Saxton.

William Thompson, editor of the Saxton Herald, died at his home in Saxton Thursday night, July 2, 1914. He was born August 15, 1861, at Mooresville, Huntingdon County, Pennsylvania. On November 11, 1886, he was united in marriage to Miss Jennie Rebecca Breth, and to this union there were born seven children, Lillian, Horace, Hazel, Margaret, William, John and Helen, all of whom survive the father. He is also survived by two grandchildren, three sisters, Mrs. S. T. Stewart of Petersburg, Pa., Mrs. Walter McCrum of Alexandria, Pa., and Mrs. Clayton Montgomery of Melrose, Pa., and two brothers, Sydney of Pittsburgh and Edgar of Philadelphia.

The funeral took place at Saxton, Sunday, July 5, in the M. E. Church, conducted by Rev. Carl V. Drake, and interment was made in Fockler's Cemetery. The P. O. S. of A. officiated at his funeral of which organization he was a very active member. He was for twenty years a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church and served for some years as secretary of the board of trustees of his church. He was a member and secretary of the board of school directors, member of the board of health, secretary of P. O. S. of A. Hall Association.

Mr. Thompson came to Saxton with George Wilson, who, as a partnership, established and conducted the Saxton Herald, May 7, 1884. Upon Mr. Wilson's death a year afterwards, Mr. Thompson assumed the business under the firm name of Herald Publishing Company.

The deceased was a persistent worker, good writer, a quiet, unostentatious exponent for right and a very unassuming and respectful Christian gentleman.

Francis M. Amos

Francis Marion Amos, who had been an invalid for a number of years past, died at his home on North Richard Street last Tuesday morning. His death is mourned by a large circle of friends and relatives. He was born in Bedford Township May 2, 1845, and spent the greater portion of his life in the county. He resided at Hopewell where he was engaged in the foundry business and then subsequently at Saxton where he was employed as master mechanic of the H. & B. T. Railroad, a number of years at Mann's Choice, where he was engaged in the milling business, and for some time past at Bedford.

A number of years ago while employed as master mechanic of the Dry Fork Railroad at Hendricks, W. Va., he was so seriously injured in a railroad wreck that he was compelled to walk with crutches, until four years ago, since which time he has been confined to his home and for three and one-half years had not been able to arise from his bed.

After returning to Bedford he was elected Register and Recorder and served one term in that office. Mr. Amos was a veteran of the Civil War, having served an enlistment in Company I, 14th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, until the close of the war. He took a very great interest in the work of secret societies and was a member of the Masonic Fraternity, as well as the Knights of the Knights of the Mystic Shrine, Philadelphia; Logan Lodge, Knights of Pythias, Altoona; I. O. O. F. Saxton and Knights of the Golden Eagle of Pleasantville. He was a life-long member of the Methodist Episcopal Church and as long as he was able to get away from home was regular in his church attendance.

On September 14, 1871, he was married to Miss Sallie M. Boor, who, with two sons, John F. of Charlotte, N. Y., Harry of Philadelphia, and a daughter, Mrs. Edgar Casteel, of Bedford, survive. He is survived also by one brother, Samuel B. Amos, and one sister, Mrs. Henry Bagley, of Bedford.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon, conducted by Rev. G. W. Faus, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and will be in charge of the Masonic Fraternity. Interment in Bedford Cemetery.

Oria C. Brenneman

Oria C. Brenneman died at his home in Huntingdon Sunday morning of Bright's disease, aged 63 years. Shortly after his marriage with Miss Martha E. Kimberling of West Providence Township, he engaged in the butchering business at Everett for a few years. He then moved to Huntingdon where he followed butchering for a while, afterwards taking up the restaurant business. Besides his wife, three daughters and five sons survive. Interment was made in Riverview Cemetery, Huntingdon, on Tuesday.

Reynolds-Morrison

William H. Reynolds, son of Lieutenant Governor John M. Reynolds of Bedford, and a nephew of Mrs. Catherine L. Bretz of Attorney De Warren H. Reynolds of Cumberland, was married to Miss Alberta Morrison at Chattanooga, Tenn., on Sunday, June 28. Mr. Reynolds for several years was connected with the West Virginia Central Railway and is now engaged in business at Spring City, Tenn.

Auto Turns Topsy-Turvy

Little Girl from Everett, Six Years-Old, Killed Instantly. Other Well Known People Killed and Greatly Injured.

Accident Near Stoyestown on Pittsburgh Pike, Sunday Afternoon. Two Boys of the Eight Passengers Escaped Injury.

On last Friday evening, James Topley and his wife, who was a daughter of Alfred Bain, deceased, of Bedford, and a niece of Miss Lizzie M. Bain of this place, and their two sons, Frank and James Topley, together with Mr. and Mrs. John J. Hildinger, Mrs. Hildinger being a daughter of James M. Hedding, formerly of the firm of Hedding and Covatt, Bedford, and also a cousin of Miss Lizzie M. Bain, started from their homes in McKeesport to visit friends and relatives over the Fourth in and around Everett and Bedford. They started on their journey over the Pittsburgh Pike in Mr. Topley's new 90-horse power, seven passenger automobile, a massive and powerful machine which ascended and descended the mighty grades of the Alleghenies as if they were molehills and whose speed never abated for the condition of the roads, because the force was within to surmount any condition found on well traveled highways. This magnificent machine created a great deal of pride in its possessor as any one becomes proud and ought to become proud of superior possessions.

This party of jovial, pleasant, and amiable friends arrived at the Union Hotel, Everett, Friday evening at about 11 o'clock. Saturday afternoon they came to Bedford and visited Mrs. J. Reed Irvine, Miss Lizzie Bain and others whom they knew, and motored to the cemetery where Mrs. Hildinger pointed out in particular the spot beside her father where she wished to be buried. That evening they spent very pleasantly at the famous Sulphur Springs Hotel, a very noted mountain resort of the county.

Sunday they returned to Everett, got Mrs. Casper Lowery, an aged lady and a friend and neighbor for many years, and Mrs. Lowery's niece, little Dollie Price, a daughter of William Price, a carpenter, employed in Gibbons's planing mill of Everett, and a child of six tender years, with the intention of giving them a pleasant out-door trip across the beautiful mountains and paying them their respects by having them visit with them in McKeesport for a couple of weeks. The machine pulled the mountains with all ease and the party with its beloved guests were enjoying the mountain's breezes, the mountain's magnificent scenery and the smooth mountain road with such luxury and such confidence that the farther they went the faster they sped until they flew past automobile after automobile going at an accelerated speed with seemingly no fear. Then the automobile apparently became unmanageable, wavered from one side to the other when a sharp turn of the front wheels caused them to crash under the load, the axle to break and plow the hard road to a depth of four inches, turn the car over twice with all the occupants inside. Imagine the helplessness and the distress into which this body of good friends was thrown. Yet two boys and one woman went through the dreadful catastrophe with little injury. Little Dollie Price, a child of six years, had her neck broken, body crushed completely and right leg torn off just above the knee. The body was brought home Sunday evening in an automobile and was buried yesterday at 2 o'clock.

The other unfortunate friends, were picked up and hurried to the hospital at Johnstown where Mr. Topley, the driver and owner of the machine, died. He was a strong man and the physicians had strong anticipations for his recovery but death came to him as they entered the hospital doors, gasping for breath and eyes glaring while in the ambulance. His skull was fractured and head crushed and neck lacerated. Mrs. Topley died after entering the hospital with a crushed skull and profuse bleeding at nose, mouth and ears and from deep cuts in the neck. Mrs. John J. Hildinger, after a few days lingering unconscious in the hospital, died. Her skull was fractured and she bled profusely which weakened her beyond recovery. Of the four fatalities one, the little girl, was killed instantaneously and the other three never gained consciousness. Mr. Hildinger is a patient yet in the hospital, still unconscious too but there are hopes for his recovery. The two Topley boys, whose orphanage was created in a second, "in the twinkling of an eye," were taken to their homes late Sunday evening, without their loving father or mother. "Oh change! Stupendous change!" How can it ever be forgotten!

Mrs. Lowery, after treatment in the hospital, was taken to her home in Everett to mourn the loss of her friends and her little niece and to shudder at every doleful remembrance of the fatal accident. No motor accident has spread such a general gloom over Bedford and Everett and vicinity where all of the little band of unfortunates were well known.

Railroad Influences

The railroads are doing their utmost to produce a panic. Freight which six months or a year ago took 10 days to arrive, arrives now in three or four weeks. The volume of business remains the same for the season of year. When the crops are to be moved there will be a stagnation. Then the Interstate Commerce Commission will act. When any corporation or number of corporations have the power to create hard times at will, it is high time for the government to confiscate the property and put such combinations out of business. All acts of that kind convert the people to the idea of government control and that is going to be the result of the present obnoxious among public service concerns today.

Bedford Won and Lost

On July Fourth our baseball stars crossed bats with the Everett stringers twice. In the forenoon we gave the Everett cads the blues by scoring 4 to 0. In the afternoon Everett passed the same cold colors over to us by a score of 2 to 0.

Both teams played good ball and our boys would have shut Everett out in the afternoon had it not been for a home hit which was purely an accident with Everett. Everett has a kid for a pitcher but with justice for all, he can put some ball over. Considering the little practice our team has had they played good ball and should have the encouragement of the town.

Mrs. Mary A. Baker

Mrs. Mary A., wife of Andrew N. Baker, died at her home at Roaring Spring Saturday evening, after a lingering illness of rheumatism. She was a daughter of William and Barbara Smouse and was born near Woodbury October 31, 1841, where she grew to womanhood. On April 23, 1863, she married Andrew N. Baker. About four years after their marriage they began farming near Henrietta, which they successfully followed until 1903, when they moved to Roaring Spring. Her husband, three daughters and five sons, one of whom is William Baker of Waterside, survive. Three sisters are also living. Interment was made in Greenlawn Cemetery, Roaring Spring, Tuesday afternoon.

Another Auto Accident

Coming from Everett to Bedford last Sunday evening in a Hup run-about, Charles Geinger of the former place, lost control of his steering wheel on account of a lost nut and the machine crashed into the bank at the Narrows. The occupants were thrown out, the driver being uninjured, but a Miss May fainted from her injuries, and the small brother of the driver, Leo Geinger, Jr., aged about three years, received a severe scalp wound and a sprained arm. They are children of Leo Geinger, Sr., policeman at Everett.

Mrs. Catherine McMullin

Mrs. Catherine McMullin died at the home of her son, Charles G. McMullin, Bedford Street, Monday morning, July 6, from the effects of a stroke. She was born at Schellsburg May 20, 1831, and was a daughter of J. Lindsay. Her husband, John McMullin, died some years ago. One son, Charles G. McMullin, manager of the local Western Union Telegraph Company, and two daughters, Mrs. Alice Zembower of Cumberland and Mrs. Lucy Hite, of Hyndman, survive. Funeral services were conducted at her late residence Tuesday afternoon by her pastor, Rev. G. W. Faus. Interment was made in Bedford Cemetery.

Rev. D. S. Clapper

Rev. David S. Clapper died at his home at Scalp Level, Cambria County, Tuesday afternoon of last week. He was a native of this county and lived near Loysburg for a long time. He is survived by two sons and six daughters, two of whom live in this county. Mrs. Laura Burkett at Everett and Mrs. Ida Brallier at Tatesville. Interment was made in the Berkey Cemetery, Scalp Level, on Thursday.

Hughes-Stuckey

At Hagerstown, Md., on Tuesday, July 7, Thomas Hughes of Schellsburg and Miss Anna Stuckey of Wolfburg were united in marriage by Rev. Father Sidney Hurlbut of St. Mary's Catholic Church. Philip Hughes accompanied his brother to Hagerstown to attend the wedding.

METHODIST DAY AT LAKEMONT

Arrangements Completed for Seventeenth Annual Reunion, July 30.

The seventeenth annual gathering of the sons and daughters of Wesley will be held at Lakemont Park, on Thursday, July 30. All arrangements are now complete. Grace Church people furnish the meals, and their previous catering is a guarantee of excellent service and good things in plenty. The Lakemont people will be in charge of the refreshments, which have been dispensed by them for three years. For the first time Fairview young people are to look after the checking booth.

The program of speakers is very strong, and presents such a variety that it must command large and wide interests. For the morning period, during which a sermon is delivered, Rev. Ezra H. Yocum, D. D., of Bellefonte, Pa., is engaged. He is not only a profound thinker, but a magnetic speaker. Full of force, he always stirs folks. The first period will be a moving time that will set a pace for the entire day. In the afternoon Dr. W. S. Bovard, Secretary of the Methodist Brotherhood, makes the address. Those who heard him any one of the three times he spoke at the Harrisburg conference last March, know that a full, rich treat is in store for the crowds that come for the afternoon. His fine physique, indicating a reserve of strength, will be by no means the most charming part of his presence. His word is turned with the skill of a painter, poet and prophet. At night "Sights and Experiences in Touring Europe" will be vividly and wittily presented by Dr. J. Fred Heisse of Baltimore, Md. He has a taking talk that sticks and pleases, informs and amuses—just the kind to hold folks that are a trifle tired with the full day and can't take time to see for themselves those ancient wonders and meet those odd, vivacious, miserable, mixed, monstrous multitudes that are to be found in the old country, if you care to look for an experience. Excursion tickets will be sold July 29, good until August 1, from all points on Cresson division, and between Lock Haven, Huntingdon, Johnstown, Cumberland and Altoona. The only excursion trains on Methodist Day start from Saxton, via Bedford, and Grampian, via Tyrone. From all other lines regular trains must be taken. All persons should inform themselves about the railroad arrangements, including the rates and trains. See the circulars at every depot within the named territory, and inquire of the local ticket agent.

Albert H. White, Cleveland, Ohio, will speak in Bedford Sunday, July 12, in the M. E. Church at 11 a. m., subject, "Law and Law Makers." In the afternoon for men only in the Presbyterian Church, subject, "Hogs or Hell." He will also speak Tuesday evening, 8 o'clock, in the M. E. Church for ladies only, subject, "Why Girls go Wrong, or The White Slave Traffic Exposed."

Mr. White has been lecturing against vice and crime and the social condition for a number of years. He represents an organization which is engaged in a general crusade against the present industrial system, and vice of all kinds. The general purpose of the American Civic Reform Union is to suppress intemperance, cigarettes, white slave traffic, polygamy, and change the industrial condition, making it easier for men to live. Mr. White is an eloquent speaker and has been invited back many times where he has given lectures.

The Democrat of New Martinsville, W. Va., says of his recent lecture, "His advice to fathers and mothers relative to their sons and daughters was timely, right to the point. Mr. White is an able speaker and showed by his talk that he was posted on his subject and was fearless in his denunciation of vice of every sort." Mr. White is highly endorsed by Oelwein Register, Waterloo Courier and Nashua Reporter, all Iowa papers. Mr. White comes well recommended from Meadville, Erie, Emporium, Renovo and Lock Haven, Pa.

More Cemetery Contributors

He is visiting at the home of Mr. H. H. Lysinger. He will also visit at Cessna, Osterburg and Alum Bank before returning to the Smoky City.

Greater love among mankind was advocated at Chicago's international Sunday School convention. It's possible—by eliminating the mean.

Five Rules for Borrowing Money

Five rules designed to convince farmers that there is no magic about credit are set down in Farmers' Bulletin 583, "How to Use Farm Credit," which the department has just published. Unless the farmer who is thinking of borrowing money fully understands these rules and is willing to be guided by them, the Government's advice to him is: don't. As it is, there are probably almost as many farmers in this country who are suffering from too much as from too little credit.

Of these rules the three most important are:

1. Make sure that the purpose for which the borrowed money is to be used will produce a return greater than needed to pay the debt.
2. The length of time the debt is to run should have a close relation to the productive life of the improvement for which the money is borrowed.
3. Provision should be made in long-time loans for the gradual reduction of the principal.

The first rule is, of course, the key to the wise use of credit. Between borrowing money to spend on one's self and borrowing money to buy equipment of some sort with which to make more money there is all the difference between folly and foresight, extravagance and thrift. If the money is borrowed for a wise purpose it will produce enough to pay back principal and interest and leave a fair margin of profit for the borrower into the bargain. If it is borrowed for a foolish purpose it will produce nothing and consequently there will be nothing with which to repay the loan. From this point of view it matters comparatively little whether the interest be high or low. It is the repayment of the principal that is the chief difficulty.

Rules two and three deal with the most satisfactory ways of repayment. Underneath them both is the same principle: The loan must be repaid with the money it earns itself. For example, if the money is used to buy a machine that will last 10 years, the machine must earn enough to pay that time to pay for itself or it never will. The loan, therefore, should be entirely repaid before the 10 years are up or the farmer will lose money on the transaction, paying out interest for no benefit in return. On the other hand, if too early a date is set for repayment, the machine will not have had sufficient opportunity to make the requisite money and the borrower may have difficulty in raising it elsewhere. Rule three provides for some form of amortization, the system by which the principal is repaid in installments so that the amount of the loan is continually diminishing and in consequence the interest charges also. Such a system is quite feasible when the loan is really productive, when it returns to the borrower a definite revenue each year. Tables showing the payments required to pay off principal and interest in varying periods of time are appended to the bulletin and are recommended to the serious consideration of everyone who contemplates borrowing money. The bulletin also advises the farmer to secure the lowest possible interest. At first sight this seems too obvious to be worth mentioning. Of course, the interest should be as small as possible. Everybody knows that—except the lender. But if the other rules are observed, if the borrower manages his financial affairs soundly, he will be surprised to find how much easier it is to obtain favorable terms. The right kind of lender does not want to foreclose mortgages; he wants his money back with a fair profit, like any other merchant. For money that is borrowed wisely, for money that is sure to be repaid, he charges low interest.

This, in fact, is why the Government has published these rules for borrowers. It is not so much a matter of driving a shrewd bargain as it is of observing a few fundamental principles which alone can make credit a blessing and not a curse.

CRYING FOR HELP

Lots of It In Bedford But Daily Growing Less.

The kidneys often cry for help. Not another organ in the whole body more delicately constructed; not one more important to health. The kidneys are the filters of the blood.

When they fail the blood becomes foul and poisonous. There can be no health where there is poisoned blood.

Read what Doan's Kidney Pills have done for overworked kidneys. Read what Doan's have done for Bedford people.

Miss Susie Fletcher, 113 W. Penn St., Bedford, Pa., says: "I suffered from a severe case of kidney complaint. I had heavy, dull aches in my back and side so that I was unable to bend over or lift. These troubles bothered me more severely when I caught a cold. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Dull's Drug Store and soon got relief."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Miss Fletcher had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

Let it be understood that the new ambassador to Russia spells his name "Marrye," and not "Mary," nor yet "Marry."

"The country no longer listens to us," complains a United States Senator. Then go home!

Colonel Roosevelt may be a sick man, but he is "some copy" for the daily press.

Silence is golden, but a silver dollar will get more potatoes to the bushel.

It's a base slander! There is no truth whatever in the report that women's dresses this season are to be made so tight they will have to be worn inside the house.

To Have Pretty Hair

If your hair is not as soft and pretty, or as fresh and full as that of some friend, do as she does—give it daily attention, just the same care you would give a plant to make it healthy and beautiful. Luxuriant hair—soft, fluffy, thick and lustrous—is really a matter of care. If it is too thin, make it grow. If it is too dry and brittle, soften it up—lubricate it. If you have dandruff it is because the scalp is too dry and flakes off.

Parisian Sage, an inexpensive tonic, which you can get from any druggist, or from F. W. Jordan, Jr., is just what you need—it softens the scalp, nourishes the hair roots, immediately removes dandruff, and makes the hair fluffy, lustrous and abundant. Parisian Sage takes away the dryness, stops itching head, makes the hair twice as abundant and beautifies it until it is soft and lustrous.

By the use of this helpful tonic any woman can easily make her hair fluffy, soft and pretty.—Adv. 10 Jul 2t

Point

July 6—Lester Yarnell, wife and niece of North Braddock are guests of the family of your correspondent at present. Mr. Yarnell is an employee of the Westinghouse Works in East Pittsburgh, whose employees are on a strike.

John Wertz and wife, Mrs. Rhoda Waite and two children of Altoona, Edward Studebaker and wife of South Bend, Ind., and William B. Studebaker and wife of Los Angeles, Cal., were guests of the family of Samuel McIlwaine last week.

Harry Blackburn, wife and son of Canton, O., Charles Blackburn, wife and child of Altoona and Mr. Harle, rode and family of Hyndman were guests of the family of C. W. Blackburn last week. On Saturday the Blackburn family, numbering eighteen, accompanied by the family of T. R. Studebaker, with William Amick and Mr. Rankin went to Dunning's Creek to fish, making the trip in a four-horse wagon. They were joined by R. S. McCreary and family of Cessna. They had a good time but almost had fisherman's luck. The number of fish caught was not reported. William Amick and Harry Blackburn are said to be heavy losers in a game of pitching horse shoes, but are not asking for an investigation. Charles returned to Altoona Sunday evening and Harry and family will return to Canton, O., on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Kinsey and daughter of Johnstown are spending their vacation among relatives and friends in this community.

Calvin King of Altoona had an accident recently which incapacitated him from work for a few days. He concluded to spend the time among his old friends and neighbors. He returned to Altoona Sunday evening.

Russell Wonders and family of New Paris spent Sunday as the guests of the family of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wonders.

Wilson M. Hissong and family of Cessna and Joseph P. Allen, wife and two sons of Bedford were welcome guests of the family of your correspondent on Sunday.

Major William Watson Post, No. 332, G. A. R., of Bedford regular meeting will be held on Tuesday, July 14. A full turn out is desired, as important business will be transacted.

Chalybeateville

July 5—John Burket and sister Margaret spent last Saturday and Sunday in Black Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Bagley were guests of their daughter, Mrs. Irvin Imbler, near Imbertown, a few days this week.

Misses Nellie and Ruth Manock have returned from Washington, D. C., where they were spending a few days with their brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bowers and family of Ohio are spending some time with Mrs. Bower's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Arnold.

Misses Hazel and Helen Dibert of Pittsburgh are visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Dibert. Miss Clara DeVore spent Sunday afternoon with her sister, Mrs. Nave, in Centreville.

Raymond and Harold Blarth and LeRoy Schaeffer of Altoona were pleasant callers in our village last Saturday.

B. R. and Arthur Sill were called to the bedside of their mother, Mrs. Joseph Sill, of Pleasant Valley last week. Mrs. Sill has been very ill and we are sorry to say very little better at this writing.

Rural Mail Carrier Scott Miller of Clearville was a pleasant caller in our town last week. He had with him some fine cherries.

Misses Gilchrist of Hyndman, daughters of John Gilchrist, are spending a few days with Mrs. George Moses.

Last Sunday our campers were agreeably surprised by a visit from an auto crowd from their home in Altoona. Woodrow.

"I suffered habitually from constipation. Doan's Regulents relieved and strengthened the bowels so that they have been regular ever since."—E. Davis, Grocer, Sulphur Springs, Texas.—Adv.

Two moving picture artists were drowned in Colorado, and not even a camera man present to take a shot at them.

Eleven weary months of suspense and expense before another June bride!

St. Clairsville

July 7—A very interesting and closely contested game of baseball was played at the Union Picnic at Oster's Grove on Saturday, July 4, between the Fishertown Athletics and the St. Clairsville Reds. The Reds were more fortunate in placing their hits and they won from the Athletics. Score by innings:

St. Clairsville 0 0 0 1 0 1 0 3 x—5

Batteries—St. Clairsville, Siipe and Geisler; Fishertown, Way and Taylor.

Mrs. A. L. Bohn and children of Altoona are visiting her mother for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Stambaugh of Altoona spent a few days recently with the latter's mother, Mrs. Lemon Stambaugh.

Ivadne Phillips is with her grandparents at the present time. The summer normal closed last Monday and the two teachers taught a very successful term.

W. S. Otto was home over the Fourth, taking full advantage of the big meals set forth.

D. R. Longenecker and son of Roaring Spring passed through town this morning enroute to the Crissman Mills in Dutch Corner.

Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Crissman, children and Susie Claycomb visited friends at Roaring Spring and Lousburg last Sunday.

Misses Grimes, after a trip to Washington, D. C., and other points, was in town the early part of this week.

Lutzville

July 8—G. R. Lutz and family while out driving on Sunday came in contact with an automobile and had several spokes of their buggy broken.

Thomas E. Watt and wife of East End, Pittsburgh, are spending the summer in their cozy summer home here.

Mrs. Effie Smith and daughter Margaret of Cumberland have returned to their home, after spending a week here with Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Diehl.

Mrs. F. L. Bertram is nursing a sore hand as the result of a fall in which the little finger of the right hand was dislocated.

G. T. Beagle, who had been engaged here loading bark, lumber, poles, etc., for A. B. Egolf, has secured a position on the state highway as blacksmith.

F. L. Bertram is contemplating going to Nittrity, Centre County, and New Franklin, Franklin County.

A Million Acres in Eastern Forest Reserves

In the White Mountains the latest surveys show 138,572 acres that now belong to the Government. They cover the northern slopes of the Presidential Range, the eastern slopes of the Carter-Moriah group, and a portion of the northern slopes of the Franconia Mountains. At the South, where more extensive purchases are made, reports for June, 1914, show 916,000 acres. These include portions of the high mountains in North Carolina surrounding Mount Mitchell, "the great black dome," which is the highest point between the Rockies and the Alps, the North Pole and the Andes. Large forest tracts have been taken in the rocky uplands of western Tennessee, and in the Natural Bridge country of Virginia, but not including the bridge itself. These Southern mountains include the headwaters, not only of the Tennessee River and other important tributaries of the Ohio, but also the Catowba, the Yadkin, and many mountain streams that feed long navigable rivers. The latest purchase at the South comprises the famous Pisgah Forest, near Asheville, N. C., 86,000 acres, long held in charge of a trained forester by the late George W. Vanderbilt. This does not include 5,000 acres surrounding the mansion at Biltmore.

More than one million acres have now been made a part of the Eastern National Forests. From "The New Forest Reserves in the Eastern Mountains," by Philip W. Ayres, in the American Review of Reviews for July.

FIRST DOSE ENDS INDIGESTION, HEARTBURN, OR GAS ON STOMACH

The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from indigestion, dyspepsia or out-of-order stomach is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking Tonoine Tablets. People with weak stomachs should take Tonoine Tablets occasionally, and they will be a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, sour risings, gas on stomach, or belching of undigested food, headaches, dizziness or sick stomach; and besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour, out-of-order stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved five minutes after taking Tonoine Tablets.

Go to your druggist and get a box of Tonoine Tablets and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. Tonoine Tablets freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living.

Tonoine Tablets cost $1.00 for a 50 days' treatment. At druggists or mailed by American Proprietary Co., Boston, Mass.—Adv. 3 July 4t.

Wireless in Australia

A chain of wireless stations extends around the entire coast of Australia so that vessels are never out of communication with shore. These stations also connect with similar stations at New Zealand and Fiji and soon all the English possessions in the south seas will be connected by wireless.

HAPPY MOTHERHOOD

The happiness of motherhood is too often checked because the mother's strength is not equal to her cares, while her unselfish devotion neglects her own health.

It is a duty of husband or friend to see that she gets the pure medicinal nourishment in Scott's Emulsion, which is not a drug or stimulant but nature's concentrated oil-food tonic to enrich and enliven the blood, strengthen the nerves and aid the appetite. Physicians everywhere prescribe Scott's Emulsion for overworked, nervous, tired women; it builds up and holds up their strength. Get Scott's at your nearest drug store.

Problem of Backward Children

Dr. J. E. Wallace Wallin, director of psycho-educational clinics in the School of Education in the University of Pittsburgh, with the aid of several assistants is doing a wonderful work with backward children. He has a considerable variety of feeble-minded and backward children, and the students are given instruction in the technique of examining and educating the exceptional children. Those who have enrolled for these courses are from eastern and western states, as well as from Pittsburgh.

Dr. Wallin, in a recent interview about this ancient evil of unequally graded children in the public schools, said, "It is only a question of a few years when the crude and unscientific methods of classifying children in the schools which are in vogue today will be relegated to the scrap heap of past barbaric educational practices."

Dr. Wallin maintained: "It is just as preposterous and unscientific to attempt to classify and train children in the schools without a prior individual educational examination and diagnosis as it is to attempt to treat patients in hospitals without first providing a thorough examination and diagnosis."

"Not many years ago," he said, "the superintendent of schools in a large eastern city stated that it would be impossible to find a single feeble-minded child in his entire school system. No one today would be so foolhardy as to make such a statement. Now, we know that about one per cent. of elementary school children are actually feeble-minded, a similar number grade as border-line, and about two per cent. are so seriously backward that it is a pure waste of time and money to try to educate them in the regular grades."

Dr. Wallin suggests that there is only one solution for the misfit child and that is the organization in all the large public school systems throughout the country of psycho-educational clinics for the careful identification and classification of misfit children, and the provision of differentiated types of training in special classes which shall fit their individual needs.

Civil Service Examinations

Civil Service examinations are announced to be held on the dates hereunder for the purpose of securing eligibles for the vacancies mentioned. Persons interested should send at once to Representative Warren Worth Bailey, House Office Building, Washington, D. C., for application blanks and information. He will give all requests immediate attention.

BREEDING FLIES AT HOME

For several years past the campaign against the fly has been waged with unceasing vigor until the majority of us have come to realize how dangerous this disgusting little insect may be.

Decency and health demand that it be abolished and whoever is responsible for the toleration of its breeding places is a public enemy. However, before you criticize your neighbor make a tour of your own back yard. Of course your garbage can is properly provided with a lid? No. Well, sanitation begins at home. Seek no further until this is remedied for here is the source of much of your trouble.

Uncovered garbage cans and makeshift substitutes are the breeding places for millions upon millions of flies during the summer months. Where the prompt removal of this kitchen refuse is impossible it should be kept in a tightly closed receptacle. A little kerosene poured over it every day or so will prevent the flies from breeding.

There are many other breeding grounds—dirty stables, insanitary out-houses, etc., but none more common than an uncovered garbage can. One neglected manure pit will do more to exterminate flies than a car load of swatters, no matter how enthusiastically wielded.

Do your share in the work of destroying these dangerous pests by cleaning out their breeding places.

Rabies-Hydrophobia

In commenting upon the many false impressions that exist in the minds of laymen relative to rabies, Dr. C. J. Marshall, State Veterinarian, brought out the following points: "If an animal bites a person, or is suspected to be affected with rabies, the animal should be confined and a qualified veterinarian called. The latter, no doubt, will advise that the animal be kept under observation for a week. If the animal is affected with rabies, it will not recover but the disease will develop rapidly and terminate fatally in less than ten days. For two reasons the animal should not be destroyed until marked symptoms are observed: first, the suspected animal may not be affected with rabies and it allowed to live the person bitten will be greatly relieved; second, the changes upon which a diagnosis is made, in a laboratory, are not usually observed unless the disease is well advanced.

"A person bitten by a dog is not exposed to infection with rabies unless the animal is affected with the disease at the time of the biting. It is an erroneous idea that a person bitten by a dog may develop rabies in seven days, seven weeks, seven months, seven years, or that a person bitten will develop rabies if the dog that bit them should at any time in the future develop the disease, unless the animal shows symptoms within two or three days after the wound is inflicted."

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Demand for Veal Rapidly Increasing. "The demand for veal has increased rapidly, and not only are the surplus dairy calves slaughtered but thousands of beef calves as well, until a calf will now sell for from $8 to $12 when only two or three months old."

This quotation from Farmer's Bulletin 588 of the department means that unless the farmer has unlimited cheap feeds, it is usually more profitable to market the dairy or dual-purpose calves than to attempt to raise them, even though some of them might make good steers. While many deplore this heavy slaughter of calves, and legislation against it has been urged, the consumer's demand must be met.

While the number of cattle has decreased, the demand for meat has naturally grown until not only have the exports nearly ceased, but the packers, that they may provide cheaper meat, are now buying many cattle that were formerly fed. The farmers who formerly bought nearly finished cattle as feeders have been compelled to pay higher prices for such cattle or to take thinner animals.

The cattle-feeding business has changed greatly during recent years. Formerly steers from four to six years of age were fed in large numbers on commercial feed at yards near granaries or mills, or upon large farms where only the roughage was grown, and the cattle were kept on full feed for six months or longer. This method became too expensive, so feeding is now conducted upon farms as a means of marketing farm products by converting them into beef, while the manure produced is utilized as a by-product for maintaining fertility.

FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 10, 1914.

With the deepest sorrow we announce to the Editorial Fraternity the death of William Thompson, editor and proprietor of the Saxton Herald and Herald Publishing Company, respectively, on Friday, July 3, 1914, and extend to his bereaved family and friends our heart-felt sympathy.

Wool is selling for 25 to 26¢ per pound unwashed, a price higher than any for the last ten years. Not bad without any protection. Where are the Republican papers on this point? Have they lost sight? Potatoes are higher this year than last year. Eggs are beyond last year. Grain is higher. Republicans had better organize a committee now to deplore the effect of such enormously low prices, or possibly better the one organized this last spring had better get to work to fulfill its mission or all its argument will have slipped away.

AUTO SPEED REGULATIONS

A great deal is being said and written concerning the regulation of the speeding of automobiles on the State highways and each accident occurring through excessive speeding brings with it a discussion of the necessity of policing of the highways and arresting those guilty of violating the speed limit provided in the law. The necessity of this regulation is plainly evident. When an automobile reaches a speed of thirty miles an hour it is going at an unsafe rate, yet the fascination attendant upon fast traveling is so great that the driver throws the throttle wider and wider, the auto creeps faster and faster, the anxiety in the breast of the driver becomes greater and greater until he has reached a speed way beyond the slightest safety.

To attempt to curb this fascination on the part of individuals is the height of folly. It's a psychological principle that when you put a temptation before a human and then say "don't be tempted," he is going to delve in the very thing he shouldn't even after a careful warning of the peril.

To say by law that the motor speed over State roads shall not be greater than twenty-five miles an hour and then allow machines with gearing for a speed of sixty miles an hour to be sold to the people is too incongruous for common sense. So long as machines geared for sixty miles an hour are made and sold upon the market, just so long is that speed limit going to be tried out irrespective of any law to the contrary and a number of State Police can stop it no matter how cautious they are nor how closely they are stationed along the right of way. In fact we fear that to police the State highway sufficiently to prevent the violation of the speed law, it would require more policemen than we have people who do not have automobiles and we would have to muster as policemen the very people who violate the law, a "commission-a-thief-to-catch-a-thief" principle. The remedy is so absurd and so unreasonable as to suggest snore. Besides being unreasonable the remedy is vastly extravagant—a fact about which the State Highway Department doesn't care a bit. The cost to police the State highways effectively would cost $100,000 a year, at least, and that would be a mighty low estimate. Let's figure: The State builds 8,000 miles of road. Say we put a policeman every 40 miles, and that won't stop speeding at all. It would require 200 men for a police force. The cost in wages, expenses, equipment, etc., would be at least $5 a day, or $1,000 a day for 200. Suppose they are on duty for June, July and August, say 100 days, the cost would reach $100,000 a year easily. The estimate is reasonable.

The only possible remedy to curb this evil is to pass a very stringent law forbidding the factories from turning on the market machines with gearings to reach over 30 miles an hour. It would be a real life saver, an economical adventure for the State and prevent roads from being torn to pieces by fast traveling.

ABRIDGING THE LAW'S DELAYS

When the Supreme Court of the United States adjourned for July and August, it left but 14 cases undecided. It gave out 591 judgments since last fall. There has been a popular impression that the court was slow, but this record indicates that the movement for abridging the law's delays is bearing fruit.

To the lawyer, legal delays are part of the day's work. The fact that a client's case has gone over to another court term does not bother him. He may rather rejoice at the postponement, as giving him more chance to collect winning evidence. Also it gives the other side a chance to perfect their game.

To the business man, however, litigation is a most harassing interruption. The losses are not measured simply in adverse judgments and fees of lawyers and sheriffs. Equally serious are the worry and uncertainty of the thing.

Once the business man crosses the threshold of the court, he feels ground through a machine whose forces he can not calculate, nor can he accelerate its progress. The only way to affect it is to throw sand into the cogs and cause a stoppage. A day in court worries the average merchant or manufacturer more than weeks of ordinary business grind.

The business man simply can't understand why court week needs to drag along so interminably. If the spirit of the business world were to prevail, no case would remain finally unjudged a year.

One of the causes of depressed business is no doubt the long time it is taking to clean up the Sherman anti-trust law cases now pending in the various courts. It is good news that the Supreme Court, perhaps feeling the criticism of the law's delays proceeding from the best legal authorities as well as from the business world, is making a serious effort to expedite business.

GOOD NEWS FOR WHEAT EATERS

The wheat eaters and the wheat growers of the world are nip and tuck—largely tuck. Ten years ago the statisticians said the wheat eaters consumed only four bushels a year. But recently James J. Hill has figured it that they are getting away with seven. The inevitable result has been much higher prices. So the news of the biggest wheat crop ever raised, with 154,000,000 bushels in Kansas alone, means some help on living costs in millions of families.

Formerly wheat was something of a luxury. Half of Europe lived on "black bread." In the United States simply country people used "hasty pudding" and corn cake. Many economically minded families of the old days never had white bread, save when the minister or other dignitaries called. Now the same families are buying wheat cereal preparations put up in a wasteful manner in small packages with fancy paper coverings.

Farmers sell their wheat for one dollar a bushel and buy it back for $18 or $20 per bushel. They think that to undergo a change makes it better but it doesn't. Of course a little salt may be added and a little machinery used but that is all. The manufacturer makes the profit, the farmer loses but he still bites.

The cereal habit has enormously increased the wheat eaters. The old time rustic family had for breakfast sausage, hash, liver, or often steaks or warmed over roasts. A similar diet means bankruptcy today. The simple modern morning meal of cereal, toast or muffins, coffee, eggs when possible, and fruit, of which wheat is the backbone, looks terribly skimpy and parsimonious to your older country cousins. Yet to modern taste it seems fresher and more invigorating.

It will be interesting to know whether this year's wonderful harvest is due to weather luck, or to the spread of better farming information. Probably it is owing to both. Ordinarily it is slow work to educate the farmers. England spent 40 years in raising her production per acre from 11 to 34 bushels. The United States has been wantonly careless in farm methods. For 20 years it raised its wheat production only two bushels per acre.

The government still seems slow to make war, despite the willingness of yellow editors to bang out their typewriters in the nation's service.

The advertising pages of current magazines convince us that European hotel proprietors are going after the American dollar harder than ever this summer.

Philadelphia women have started a crusade in favor of individual drinking buckets for horses. Next in order will be boiling the water for the goldfish.

A Missouri woman advertised for a man. She got one at a cost of $6. He afterwards enlisted in the army and was killed in a battle near Manila. She got $5,000 life insurance and will get a widow's pension as long as she lives. Yet some people will tell you it does not pay to advertise.

Every town and city should have an ordinance restricting the sale of firearms. It is the promiscuous sale of weapons which produces crime.

A Baltimore man won a bet of $1,000 by rolling three miles. Others are winning wagers of $10,000 to $25,000 for making record trips around the world. It seems somebody has money to burn or throw away—and then talk about hard times. It seems more like fool times.

Blustering Gallingier

Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire has been in a terrible state of mind over business conditions for months. But his colleague, Senator Hollis, knows just as much as he does about the industries of the State both of them represent. He told the Senate that not a single cotton, woolen, pulp or paper mill in New Hampshire had closed. A shoe factory which closed last week will reopen this week. Contractors have assured Mr. Hollis that they cannot get laborers. Labor was never before so well employed in New Hampshire as it is now.—Philadelphia Record.

A JOYOUS OCCASION

Events in St. John's Reformed Church, Bedford, will be dated (for a time at least) from the evening of July 7, 1914. The occasion was a "get even with the women" social on the part of the men. Sometime ago the women served at a banquet both of the church and did it so well and beautifully that the men have been "tugging at their traces" ever since to get even. They accordingly announced that the women should be on the church lawn promptly on the evening of the above date, there to be entertained by the men by a "secret program."

They came—sixty odd strong—some of them belittling (?) in their minds any effort that a set of men might make, without the aid of some women. The look of mystery and of superiority fast disappeared from their faces as automobile after automobile rolled up before them. Soon, under the captaincy of "Billie" Reed, they were being gently led to the autos. As they passed through the gate "Lieutenant" Robison handed each a paper cap and Squire Irvine gave each a toy whistle. The gifts of that "King of Sports," Henry Heckerman. The line of autos was headed by the President of the Men's Bible Class, John P. Cuppett. The route of the party led through the streets of Bedford to Everett and return. Despite the fact that there were thirteen autos in line, not a single accident or mishap was recorded on the trip.

While the women thus played the men worked. They strung lights on the lawn, arranged the chairs and made general preparations to serve a lunch to the ladies on their return. In about seventy minutes, the honking of horns and the buzz of the autos were heard and soon the happy women were streaming on to the lawn. The men gathered together and gave them three lusty cheers and then fell to work. Talk about eating. The men had prepared two large wash boilers (they were new and clean) full of sandwiches, a large bucket full of sweet pickles, six large cakes, an abundance of cherry-nut ice cream and several kettles of coffee.

Under the direction of head waiter and coffee maker Irvine, Deacon Baker, John Corle, Dr. Daniels, Billy Reed, Willie Weisel, Postmen Shaefter and Rouzer, Eben Pennell, Head-baker England, Drayman Bailey and Daddy Robison, marched forth with a silver tray and napkins for each lady and with a liberal supply of sandwiches, pickles and coffee.

Oh! my, my, you should have seen them eat. In a minute or two all the waiters beat a hasty retreat to the commissary department for more supplies and they melted away like snow under a July sun.

The next course was ice cream and cake. Dannie Beam cut the cream and a right lively time of it he had. The cake—well it went and went quickly. Another round of coffee also went with the ice cream and the supply lasted all evening by reason of the unlimited supply of hot water. Everybody had a good time—the men really enjoyed it more than the women, if such a thing is possible.

After thoughts—

Not a man got a sandwich.

Not a man got a pickle.

E. M. Pennell was the only man to get a piece of cake and that was voted to him before the women came back, by reason of his artistic work at cutting the cakes.

The men tried to put on style by serving a small portion of coffee in a large cup and those first getting hold of the cream filled their cups so that the pitcher soon was like "Old Mother Hubbard's Cupboard" and the rest of them got none.

The women declare that the men filled themselves while they were out riding, but the men are all willing to go before Squire Weisel and swear that no one except Pennell had a bite.

PROHIBITION DOES PROHIBIT

Bedford, Pa., July 8, 1914.

Editor of The Gazette,

Dear Sir:—Under the caption, "Finds Evil in Prohibition," you gave space last week to a lengthy article from T. M. Gilmore of Louisville, Ky., President of the National Model License League, taken from the North American, issue of June 29, 1914. Many of the statements of this article are so grossly false and misleading that those familiar with the facts of prohibition reform can only smile; but in order that the unwary and uninformed may not be misled by these statements passing unchallenged, I beg a little of your space for some corrections.

After a somewhat extended argument, in which Mr. Gilmore endeavors to show that prohibition does not prohibit, he sums up by saying: "The present prohibition wave has extended over a period of nearly eighteen years, and here are some of the results: The consumption of whiskey has increased from 60,635,356 gallons per annum to 140,418,289 gallons. The consumption of beer has increased per annum from 110,609,038 gallons to 2,022,611,876 gallons. The per capita consumption of whiskey per annum has increased from 86 to 144 gallons and the per capita consumption of beer has increased per annum from 15.56 to 20.81 gallons. These figures show conclusively that our so-called prohibitory laws are not prohibiting." Do they, though? As over against the above I wish to call attention to some figures from a recent issue of the Brewers Year Book, which puts the matter in quite a different light. According to these figures the average consumption of malt liquors in nine prohibition States is 1.35 gallons per capita, per year, and in fifteen local option States (part wet and part dry) the average consumption is 4.37 gallons. But in twenty-seven saloon States, license territory, the consumption reaches an average of 25.23 gallons per capita, per year. Granting that Mr. Gilmore's figures are correct they do not prove his point.

Two men may drink an average of 13 gallons of whiskey per year but if one man drinks 25 gallons, and the other man only one gallon, the second man is not thereby proved to be as big a drinker as the first. In speaking of the increase in the per capita consumption of liquors some other facts must be taken into consideration, too. There has been in the last few years an overproduction of whiskey. The bonded warehouses are full of it. In these warehouses there was stored a year ago 263,785,831 gallons, an increase of fourteen and a half millions over the previous year. Under the law this liquor can remain in bond for eight years, when it is taken out, and when thus removed the government tax is paid, and when this tax is paid Uncle Sam considers the liquor "consumed," whereas because of the great overproduction of liquor much of this is now lying in private warehouses. It should be remembered also that the so-called "consumption" of liquors includes liquors used in mechanical and pharmaceutical and all other purposes, and that the consumption of liquors in these ways is being largely increased. Further proof of the efficiency of prohibition laws is found in the fact that Kansas has reduced its drinking 2,000 per cent. in thirty years, and that its per capita consumption of liquor is now $1.48 as compared with Missouri's per capita of twenty-four dollars' worth per year. That prohibition does prohibit is witnessed also in the falling off of the government income from distilled and malt liquors of all kinds for the fiscal year closing with June, of $3,390,000.

No less misleading is Mr. Gilmore's comparison of notes between Maine and Kentucky. This comparison is made on the assumption that Kentucky is wholly a license State as Maine is wholly a prohibition State. The truth is that Kentucky has 96 non-license counties, and only 24 license counties, so that it is almost a comparison of two prohibition States, but under such vastly differing conditions as to density of population, and social and climatic and industrial life, as to make the comparison of little or no value. For instance, Mr. Gilmore gives the number of insane in Maine as 169 per hundred thousand, and in Kentucky (which he would have us infer is a liquor State, though 96 of its counties are without license) as only 154.5 per hundred thousand. Very little difference either way, even if the basis of comparison were entirely fair, which it is not. Now, as a basis of comparison which is comprehensive enough to be fair, and to be of some real value in deciding "which way the wind blows," I suggest the following, which has been carefully worked out by H. C. Bowman of Kansas: The number of insane in the nine prohibition States is only 118 to the hundred thousand of the population, whereas in the seventeen States with an average of 50% of the population under prohibition it is 150.1 to the hundred thousand of the population. In thirteen States with less than 50% of the population in dry territory, the number is 243.3 to the hundred thousand of the population, and in the remaining license States having less than 25% of the population under prohibition there are 276.6 insane for every hundred thousand of population.

If Mr. Gilmore will work out his comparison of church membership and death rate and paupers and divorces upon the above basis he will give us some "testimony as to the effect of prohibitory laws upon the morals, health, sanity, happiness and prosperity of the people of the United States" that will be worthy of consideration.

Colonel John H. Filler

"Wartime Adventures of an Editor," by John H. Filler, are being published in the Sunday Philadelphia Record, beginning last Sunday. Colonel Filler was born in Bedford in 1829, and died in Warren, Pa., in 1911. In 1853 and '54 he published the Bedford Patriot, and was editor of the Harrisburg Patriot for 14 years, and was an editorial writer on the Philadelphia Record for 29 years. He raised a company of Bedford County soldiers the day Fort Sumpter was fired on, and went to the front as Major of the Fifty-fifth Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers. When a boy he lived in that fine old mansion on South Juliana Street now the home of Miss Julia Tate and her brother Joseph. Colonel Filler was a prisoner of war in the Columbia, S. C., jail, and in his "Wartime Adventures" he tells this story about a Bedford man:

"Even in the Confederacy and in jail meetings were sometimes as unexpected as undesirable in such conditions. One morning while I was in the jail yard they brought in a wounded prisoner to the pump where I was washing and I recognized in him Lieut. John J. Barclay of Bedford, Pa. We had lived all our youthful days on opposite sides of the street and were very warm friends. When admitted to the bar he began to practice law at Fort Dodge, la., and when the war broke out, soon afterward, he joined the Eleventh Pennsylvania Cavalry, Colonel Speer's, in which he performed gallant service. He was taken from the jail to the hospital in Columbia, where he told me afterwards that he was kindly treated by the surgeons and nurses. He recovered from his wound in a short time and was soon exchanged through the influence of Pennsylvania Railroad officials, when he joined his regiment."

Surprise Party

Tuesday evening, July 7, quite a number of young people gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wisegarver at Cessna to give their daughter Lillian a surprise in honor of her 17th birthday.

The evening was pleasantly spent on the Wisegarver Green by building a fire which all gathered around, playing various games, after which dainty refreshments were served, and at a "wee wee" hour all journeyed homeward wishing Miss Wisegarver many more such happy occasions.

Those present were: Misses Lillian, Grace and Gladys Wisegarver, Nettie and Irene Anderson, Vera and Ruth Hersberger, Grace and Hazel Troutman, Ethel Claar, Elizabeth Hammond, Ethel Koonitz, Ruth Nauhaus, Cora Gephart and Carrie Croyle; Frank, Charles and Grover Hammond, Clarence, Alfred and Robert Anderson, George Croyle, Earl Hinton, Blair Ott, Walter Amick, Charles Bittinger, Howard Koonitz, Charles Walter, Louis Gephart, George Waters and Jack Wisegarver.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Heck-Shoenthal

On July 1 at the home of Mrs. Mary B. Shoenthal at New Paris at 1:30 o'clock, her daughter, Miss Laura V., and William W. Heck of Lock Haven were united in matrimony in the presence of Lorette Shoenthal and family, William Shoenthal and family, Dr. H. I. Shoenthal and wife, Mrs. Ada Ferry and daughters, Edna and Lucile, Miss Belle Shoenthal, William E. Blackburn, Miss Nelle Blackburn, Miss Mayme Blackburn, M. S. Adams, wife and son, G. B. Sleek, Fred J. Rock and family and the bride's class of about twenty young men and ladies of the M. E. Sunday School, with Foster Berkebile of Johnstown and Miss Edna Ferry, niece of the bride, acting as attendants, Evelyn and Corine Shoenthal, nieces of the bride, as flower girls, Miss Lucille Ferry, niece of the bride, who rendered the wedding march on the piano as the bridal party entered a parlor tastefully decorated in pink and white for the occasion and Rev. L. G. Heck, father of the groom, officiating. About the time that all had done justice to a bountiful dinner that had been prepared, the New Paris Cornet Band appeared on the scene and rendered several selections of their best music, after which the band boys were invited to help themselves to cake and ice cream.

The married couple left, amid showers of good will, rain and rice, on the evening train for Harrisburg. Before returning they will visit at Philadelphia, Atlantic City, New York, Orange, N. J., Watsonstown, Lock Haven and Johnstown. They will locate at the last named place on September 1. Success to the newly married couple are the wishes of your reporter.

Eye-Strain

Measurements of human eyes demonstrate that there is probably no such thing in the world as an absolutely perfect eye. That would be a miracle which Nature with all her infinite ingenuity has never performed. No human face among all the world's sixteen hundred million may be held perfect, either artistically or physiologically. To the owner of the face, this is relatively an unimportant matter, but to the owner of the pair of eyes an error of one three-hundredth of an inch in the curvature or dimensions of the eyeballs may make their all-important function abnormal, resulting in "eye-strain" with its attendant physical ills. The eye responds to the slightest physical force in the world, that is, light waves which are hundreds of millions of times more infinitesimal than sound waves. The eyes are the hardest worked of all organs, and the safety and existence of human lives frequently depend directly on their accurate working. The harmful results of eye-strain, never wholly absent throughout life, may begin very early in childhood, even in the second year. Many little children, for instance, are constantly tearing their clothes, hurting their feet and legs, stumbling and falling, because their eyes are so faulty that their estimates of the size, location and nature of objects are not correctly made. Adults who have been blind and are suddenly given good vision, require years to learn to see with accuracy or safety in action. Probably 6 per cent. of children are left-handed, left eyedness causing left-handedness. From 6 to 10 years of age many children show an incomprehensible nervousness, twitching of the hands and face, fickle appetite and various disorders, all usually due to eye-strain. Yet almost all of these cases of eye-strain can be relieved, and should be relieved in early childhood. The importance of correcting this condition early in the child's school years, and the influence of such a condition in the education and development of the child must be apparent to every parent and teacher.

Quite a number of our folks spent the Glorious Fourth at Saxton this year.

The Broad Top Township school board and the district auditors met recently and approved the accounts of the several officers. After closing up the business of the past year, the following officers were re-elected: W. B. Deibach for secretary and H. H. Brumbaugh for district treasurer.

Prof. W. M. Edwards, his wife and son William of Scottsdale were recently very welcome visitors to our little town. Our readers will understand why our people are so much interested in Prof. Edwards when we state that he was our high school principal during the first five years of its existence and to him is due much credit for its present efficiency. Prof. Edwards and his family are always welcome.

Some one has told us to rejoice with those who rejoice, and as we believe Mr. and Mrs. William Hitchens of Deafness are happy over the arrival of twins at their home the other day, we say to their friends, rejoice.

We understand that some of our townspeople got just a bit too much "Fourth" in the shape of booze and that they are "paying the fiddler" and judging from the "move" of several more who are circulating on the streets, they would better be behind closed doors where at least the innocent children and the ladies would not be obliged to look at them. May God hasten the day when this awful curse will be driven from our land.

Rainsburg

July 7—On Saturday, July 4, the citizens of Rainsburg and vicinity assembled to celebrate the birth of our nation and to do honor to those who, for the support of the Declaration of Independence, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, mutually pledged to each other their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor. Every citizen who participated in the celebration went to his home with the feeling that it was a great success and bestowed commendation upon those who had merited it by taking part in the preparation which was necessary.

Rainsburg citizens have long been noted for their patriotism and at this time has it been more clearly shown than at our last celebration. The program was well arranged and each number rendered promptly. Friday evening the Key Concert Band of Hopewell arrived and gave a concert on the porch of the old Seminary and a festival was held by the Association. Saturday morning a parade consisting of Civil War veterans, fraternal orders and Sunday Schools, was led by the band through the streets of the town in a manner creditable to any town or city. On the afternoon able and eloquent addresses were made by Judge J. B. Cessna of Erie, Prof. C. C. Ellis of Huntingdon and Howard Cessna, Esq., of this place. After these a flag drill by the children was given and at 4 o'clock a baseball game between Bedford and Rainsburg was played, giving Rainsburg an overwhelming majority. The celebration closed with a festival and concert Saturday night.

Coming of the Rubes
Summer is at hand, and likewise the annual coming of the city rubes. Treat them gently, handle them with care, for though they may not be marked "fragile," they are as babes in the woods.

Give freely of your store of knowledge, that they may return to the abode of innocents with wisdom to spare, for as we give in this life so shall we receive in the one to come.

Instruct them carefully in the fine arts of the milking of the cow, the feeding of the fowls and the pitching of the hay, and smile not when they ask you to remove the "thick yellow scum" from their milk.

Assure them that when the cock crows at break of day it is not an alarm of fire, nor yet an earthquake, and neither is it a signal for lights out in the bar room.

Awake them at noon for their morning repast, and warn them of the bull, and the snakes, and the business end of the goat, and of all the snares that beset the unwary in the field of adventure.

Grave is your responsibility. Give it heed.

Big crops, full stomachs and less cussing, is the prediction.

Restocking Trout Streams

Plans to restock all trout streams and lakes throughout the national forests of Colorado, Wyoming and South Dakota within a period of nine years are well under way, as the result of the approval by the Federal Bureau of Fisheries of a plan of operation prepared by the Forest Service. The Bureau of Fisheries has promised to furnish the necessary fish fry for distribution to the various forests, the shipments of fry to be directed to railroad stations nearest the waters to be stocked, so that as many streams as possible may be supplied from a central point. The planting of all fry will be performed by forest officers who will keep close check on the results of the work.

According to the estimates of the forest officers, approximately 20,000,000 trout fry of the brook, rainbow, and black-spotted varieties will be needed to meet the requirements of all the waters adapted to the production of trout. Of this great number the Bureau of Fisheries is prepared to supply something over four and a half million this year, and a gradually decreasing number each successive year for a total of nine, at the end of which time it is expected that the complete restocking will have been accomplished. The estimates are said to cover 273 streams and lakes in the three States.

HECKERMAN LETTER

Meets Bedford County Folks on Streets of Smoky City.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 6.—Dad, the writer, has been stopping at the Seventh Avenue Hotel here for twenty-five years. When J. W. Boor was staying here in Pittsburgh trying to sell some oil stock for Scott Smith, he could be seen at this hotel, morning, noon and at eventide, yet I never saw John in the dining room. Perhaps that is because the dining room is so large. 'Tis a home-like hotel any way. One morning last week when I went down stairs about 6 o'clock I saw M. S. Barndollar sitting there. Now "Marty" looks fine, and in our conversation he said he came from Bedford County to welcome "Paddy," who was to be here that day. I did not see anything more of Mr. Barndollar until about five, when he went to a branch post office, but, lo and behold there at McCreary's big store stood Mr. Barndollar and Clad Masters. Each one wore a badge which was marked delegate or something at least and they were leaning up against the big McCreary building where the banquet was to be held that evening. This banquet was in honor of the Ex-President. I hope each one was thoroughly satisfied during the day.

I saw on the street James Boor, formerly of Riddlesburg. Now Jim seemed hale and hearty as a big sunflower. Oh, yes! I also met Will Jordan with his arms well filled with fire works which he and his boy expected to have some fun with. When I asked how many children he had, he said "Only one boy and I wish heartily that I had three more." Now that is the crowd of Bedford County folks I saw on the streets here on a certain Tuesday. Each and every one of these persons was very courteous to the writer.

By-the-by courtesy in every walk of life is today the growing sale. Even as honesty and ability in an individual have a worth value likewise can politeness and manner be made to pay a cash value. Ah no, for successful business nowadays does not consist merely in supplying a customer's wants. A rival concern is almost sure to appear which can surpass you in price and quality of service. It is by the courtesy of its employees that a business concern makes its friends. For at some time or other every employee, no matter how humble his position may be, represents the company or corporation in the eyes of someone. The impression then that this employee makes is the one that the customer will have with the company. Therefore, be courteous and polite to all. We make money out of our friends, for our enemies will not deal with us unless compelled to do so. A man's individual worth to the firm, company or corporation to which he belongs, increases in direct proportion to the number of friends he makes for it, and every customer by talking to relatives or friends is helping to make public opinion. Therefore, be courteous. 'Tis true that it may be hard for us to learn to restrain our natural desires to meet rudeness, impatience or what to us is unreasonable. In like manner constant observance of the right and feeling of others and a sincere desire to be agreeable will give every employee a natural charm which will protect him in all his acts and words not to do another a discourteous deed. Courtesy in very many little things is an asset worth acquiring. Be civil to all, social to many, familiar to few, enemy to none and you will be happy.

Yours truly,
M. P. Heckerman.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Pruning Climbing Roses for Next Season

After the blooming season of climbing roses is over in June the department's landscape gardener advises that shoots should be pruned, so as to throw the growth of the plant into the new wood that bore no flowers this year, for this is the part of the plant that will bear next year. When a trellis is low (6 or 8 feet high), it is a good plan to cut off the shoots that have borne flowers this year clear to the ground. Climbing roses are a valuable aid in making an attractive home and will repay careful treatment.

Most people in following this advice may feel that they are ruining their bushes to cut them back so severely, but the young shoots that have started about the roots will surprise them by springing up with wonderful rapidity. Each bush will probably put forth several new shoots that will grow as long as those cut, or one shoot will grow much longer. In either case the trellis will soon be covered again. One shoot in a Washington garden last year grew 20 feet after the bush had been cut down in this manner.

In the case of a high trellis a different method must be followed. The renewal of wood must begin from a point higher up instead of from the root, as the growth of a bush is not enough to replace all its top on a high trellis if required to grow so far. Only so much of the old wood should be removed after the flowers have bloomed as will enable the new shoots from the end of the remaining portion of the stalk to replace the old growth. About four feet is a safe measure of the amount that may be taken off.

Those who have grown climbing roses as a screen on their porches, in order to insure a fine bloom the coming year, will do well to follow the advice as given for the higher trellis. In other words, about four feet of the old stalks that have bloomed should be cut off immediately after the blossoms are withered. The foliage will recover within a very short period and continue to screen the porch, and next year an abundant crop of blossoms will be assured.

WOMEN WHO HELPED TO FREE COUNTRY

Numerous Instances Where the Wives and Daughters of Patriots Showed Themselves Worthy a Share of the Glory.

WOMEN gave their services in manifold ways during the Revolutionary war. Elizabeth Zane, at the siege of Fort Vincennes, later Fort Henry—on the present site of Wheeling, W. Va., crossed a zone of fire swept by the rifles of 500 savages carrying an apronful of powder from an auxiliary blockhouse to the main works, the fresh supply of ammunition saving the garrison from the necessity of surrender.

Catherine Schuyler, wife of the famous general, set fire to a vast acreage of wheat fields on the Schuyler estate to prevent them from falling into the hands of Burgoyne upon his advance from Fort Edward to Saratoga.

Mrs. Esther Reed of Philadelphia defied the British, who were at that time in possession of her home city, by clothing and raising funds for the American army at Valley Forge. Upon her death the work was continued by Mrs. Sarah Bache, daughter of Benjamin Franklin. Hundreds of other Philadelphia women secretly co-operated.

The wives of most of the commanding generals—notably Martha Washington and Mrs. Nathaniel Greene—accompanied their husbands in every campaign, and did everything in their power to alleviate the hardships of the soldiery. Mrs. Washington even went through the cruel winter at Valley Forge, where her ministrations are said to have saved many lives. Still other women went into British prisons and prison ships to save the sick and wounded American prisoners.

Mrs. Elizabeth Jackson, mother of Andrew Jackson, in fact, died from prison fever contracted while engaged in this work of mercy among the American captives at Charleston.

Mary Draper invented the powder bullet, which came into use after the supply of lead was exhausted, and thousands of patriotic women the country over surrendered their prize powder utensils to be melted up for ammunition.

Mrs. Rebecca Motte, whose splendid mansion between Charleston and Camden, S. C., was turned into a fort by the British, instructed the besieging Americans to set the structure afire by shooting blazing arrows on to the roof. The result was that the British were smoked out, though the mansion itself was reduced to ashes.

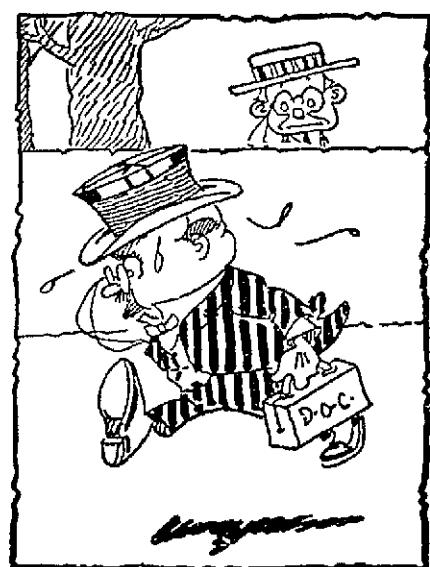

But the most bizarre service of all was rendered by Betty Hager, known also as Betty the Blacksmith, who refitted guns and artillery for the patriotic armies. Betty was a natural mechanic, whose latent abilities were developed in the employ of Samuel Leverett, a blacksmith-farmer living near Boston.

Prior to the battle of Concord, the patriots of the surrounding country had been preparing themselves for the conflict for months. Guns of all types—matchlocks, flintlocks, smoothbores, blunderbusses and what not, some of which had not seen service for three or four generations—came piling into the Leverett shop, and while Leverett himself could be observed by any passing tory to be busily engaged in shoeing horses, his unsuspected assistant was working in a secret chamber making the neighbors' antiquated old firearms serviceable once more.

Betty kept up this volunteer work throughout the whole course of the war, never accepting a single copper for her labor. To Betty and her employer, likewise, belongs the credit of putting the first captured British cannon into action. On the retreat from Concord the British left six brass cannon behind them, thoughtfully spiking the touchholes so that they could not be discharged.

Betty and Leverett, however, patiently drilled out the spikes at the rate of one a week, and in no long time the British found the beleaguering Americans driving them out of Boston at the mouths of their own cannon.
